

Blastwave FX Multi-User Licensing Overview:

Blastwave FX sound effects libraries can be looked at as software. While software is easily shared and copied, organizations with multiple users and access requirements for many users must be properly licensed and pay additional installation and usage fees. While Blastwave FX does not require every single user to purchase a copy of each library, Blastwave FX does maintain a licensing fee structure to account for various multi-user configurations. Blastwave FX is dedicated to staying on the cutting edge of technology and is committed to simply and easily accommodating your multi-user configuration, no matter what your IT infrastructure or asset management system happens to be (Soundminer, NetMix, mSoft, Final Cut Server, etc).

Blastwave FX specifically allows for one copy of our sound effects libraries to be made onto Server, Hard Drive or other storage medium that can be accessed by no more than one (1) user at a time. Sounds that are copied to Server, Hard Drive or other storage medium are to be used specifically for the purposes of synchronizing the audio with audio and/or visual productions or applications as defined in Blastwave FX Individual End User License Agreement.

If you wish to make the sound effects library accessible by two (2) or more users, you need to contact Blastwave FX to obtain a Multi-User Commercial Annual Site License. Below is an explanation of licensing fee structures and options.

Blastwave FX provides Schools and Non-profit organizations with discounted fee structures for Non-Commercial Multi-User Licenses – contact us for more information on Non-Commercial Licenses.

Blastwave FX Multi-User Annual Commercial Site License Fee Structure:

For the purposes of interpreting which fee structure is relevant to your configuration, the following definitions apply:

Hub Site:	The primary location or postal address of the Licensee, at which the Server, Hard Drive or other storage medium is located.
Onsite:	The same postal address as the Hub Site.
Remote Site:	A different postal address than the Hub.
Related:	Integral to your business or the creation of your productions.

Structure 1: Onsite Multi-User Commercial License

Onsite Multi-User License Conditions:

- All users are located within the same address as the Hub Location. All users accessing the network must be doing work that is directly related to the main business being conducted by Licensee.
- The Hub Site must own physical copies of all the Blastwave FX products that are to be copied to Server, Hard Drive or other storage medium
- No Remote Sites may have access to Blastwave FX products or sounds

Onsite Multi-User License Fee Structure:

The first two (2) users included with the purchase of Blastwave FX products. A $100 annual fee applies to each additional group of 5 users or less, up to a maximum of 25 users. By way of example:

- 2-5 users: $100 annual fee
- 6-10 users: $200 annual fee
- 11-15 users: $300 annual fee
- 16-20 users: $400 annual fee
